Searching...

From the main welcome page you can browse all ebooks, or view by subject area, even select an individual publisher to view books listed within MyLibrary. Selecting 'home' takes you back to the welcome page.

For a quick search enter search terms, using connectors AND, OR, NOT in the quick search content box, you can select from the drop-down field below to be more specific such as full text, keyword, title, ISBN or author. If you want to search for an exact phrase, use quotation marks e.g. "events management".

The screenshot shows the MyLibrary interface. On the left, there is a 'Quick Search' box with a search bar containing 'cruise OR ship', a 'Full Text' dropdown menu, and a 'go' button. Below it is an 'Advanced Search' section and a 'Search within book' section, both with the same search terms and a 'go' button. On the right, there is a 'Product Detail' page for 'Carriage of Goods by Sea'. The page includes a book cover image, the title, author (Wilson, John F.), publisher (Pearson Education UK), and various ISBNs. There are tabs for 'Full Text Hits', 'Additional Metadata', 'Table of Contents', and 'Citation'. At the bottom, there is a description of the book.

To view the ebook, click on the title or the book cover then choose from the different tab options. To read the ebook select 'open now' and view whole book. The ebook will open in a new window; you can continue to search within the ebook by selecting the search tab. There is also the option to select the table of contents, notes or bookmarks and dictionary tabs. Select back to search results to return to results.

The advanced search option provides for more complex searches which can be developed using the different search fields.

Saving or exporting your results...

You can print or download individual pages or up to 10 pages. If you sign in for an account with MyLibrary you can save selected searches or records to a personal account and create notes/bookmarks.

You can also export a record to our reference management software by selecting the Export to Refworks option. This stores your references and helps you keep track of your research. If using this for the first time you will need to set up an account using your university username and password. Refworks is then available on or off campus.

Tips and help...

Truncation -- by using an asterisk * after a word or as part of a word you can search for all variations of that word in a single search e.g. a search for spor* will find sports, sports person, sporting etc. Click on RESOURCES tab to get help for MyLibrary. For further support with this database please contact Celia Forrester the Information Librarian for Leisure, Sport & Tourism.
